

Scott Walker, Do I Love You?

Be on the shadow of a doubt
As the mighty river flows
As the meadow gave me place
With the wind on summer days
About as deep as deep can go
From the canyons to the sky
Like a mother as she cares
For the baby that she bares
Do I love you, don't you know by now
Do I love you, let me show you how
Do I love you, do I have to say
Do I love you, yes, in every way

About as sacred as a hymn
Or a Bible full of prayers
From a whisper to a roar
Very much and even more
And I will show it with my eyes
And cherish with the night
If in death the good Lord's kind
You'll be the last thing on my mind
Do I love you, don't you know by now
Do I love you, let me show you how
Do I love you, do I have to say
Do I love you, yes, in every way
Do I love you, don't you know by now
Do I love you, let me show you how
Do I love you, do I have to say
Do I love you, yes, in every way
