Secondhand Serenade, Half Alive

It's four AM, I'm waking up to your perfume Don't get up, I'll get through on my own I don't know if I'm home Or if I lost the way into your room I'm spiraling into my doom I'm feeling half alive but I know one day You and I will be free,

To live and die by our own rules, Free.. Despite the fact that men are fools.

I'm almost alive, and I need you to try And save me. It's okay that we're dying, But I need to survive tonight, tonight.

Well excuse me while I get killed softly, Heart slows down and I can hardly tell you I'm okay At least 'til yesterday, You know you got me off my highest guard, Believe me when I say it's hard. We'll get through this tonight And I know one day you and I will be free

To live and die by our own rules, Free.. Despite the fact that men are fools.

I'm almost alive, and I need you to try And save me. It's okay that we're dying, But I need to survive tonight, tonight.

And you touch my hand ever so slightly (Girl we're not ready for this yet) And the deadly look she cast upon me I won't regret, I won't regret I won't regret. I won't regret...

And I was trying to disappear, But you got me wrapped around you I can hardly breathe without you I was trying to disappear But I got lost in your eyes now, You brought me down to size now.

I'm almost alive And I need you to try and save me. It's okay that we're dying But I need to survive tonight, tonight Tonight...

I'm almost alive, and I need you to try And save me. It's okay that we're dying, But I need to survive tonight, tonight. I need to survive tonight, tonight