

Secret & Whisper, Great White Whale

I'm searching for the great white whale, strong and bold
And I will grab him by his tail, and drag him home
Locked in a tower, he will sleep forever
Locked in a tower, I'll never be alone again

I'm searching for that open field, vast and scorn
Down by the alder, we were wishing our hearts together
Down by the alder, where you told me you'd never love another
The animals are there to hunt me down

To take revenge for kidnapping your gentle sound
Down to the river, in the current you start to shiver
Return to the river, with the howling of all the animals that needed you
An uprising, impossible to fail

The creatures come from land, and sea, and air
The forest alive, with leaves, and bone, and hair
Give the animals their whale
In hunting and living, if you remember one thing
Remember I needed you
