Semisonic, Wishing Well

Last night I dreamed of falling Down a wishing well. No one could hear me calling From where I fell.

And from above the ground I could faintly hear The world and all her sounds Songs, vows, playgrounds, tears.

I fell in a wishing well Now the damage is done And who, who have I become?

Not even angels saw me From tall starry skies. And then a searchlight shone upon me Bright in my eyes.

For all this time I prayed You might come around. Now stranger I'm afraid I might call you down.

I fell in a wishing well Now the damage is done And who, who have I become?

I'm through with my dream come true. Then it's just begun And who, who have I become?

Opened my eyes and woke up twice this morning Lately getting up has only got me down. Maybe there's a place where I can live again Never leave the ground.

I fell in a wishing well Now the damage is done (Now the damage is done) And who, who have I become?

I'm through with my dream come true And it's just begun. Who, who have I become?