

Sentenced, For The Love I Bear

The silent peace this anguished morning brings leaves me to my grief
Oh, so many years Ive been married to the grave
These bitter tears fill up my sorrowed eyes as I lay my head down and beg myself to be so brave

Oh, how I miss your loving hate And yet I miss her loving hate

Cursed be this love I bear
Bereaved be this heart that bleeds for her
The love of the man lives here
-On grain and the earth, rain and the chilling air

The burning passion the glowing sunset gives will leave me to my joy and Ill laugh upon the stroke that murders me So farewell my love, take all of myself and kill this love forsaken and please send me no need of thee

Oh, how I miss your loving hate And yet I miss her loving hate

Cursed be this love I bear
Bereaved be this heart that bleeds for her
The love of the man lives here
