

Serial Joe, Lonely Heart

Lyrics: Tammy Mulligan
Music: Ryan Dennis/Dan Stadnicki
©1998

What does it do
When it's used and thrown away
When it doesn't understand
Love's not a game you play

How does it cope
When it doesn't feel its' worth
When there's no one who understands
At least not here on Earth

Where does the lonely heart go
When the laughter turns to sorrow
When it doesn't care to look outside
Or forward to tomorrow

What does it do Will it ever feel again
Or should it run and hide

I'll tell you where it goes
If you promise to believe
That every broken heart
Becomes a pair, just wait and see

Where does the lonely heart go
When the laughter turns to sorrow
When it doesn't care to look outside
Or forward to tomorrow

Where does the lonely heart go
When it breaks and needs to heal
When it hurts so much
You wish you couldn't feel