

Sesame Street, Simple Simon And The Animals

(A man walks on a road by a country fair. When he reaches the 5 mile marking stone, he is joined by a sheep, a duck, and a snake.)

Sheep: Baa-aa-aah

Duck: Quack-quack

Narrator: Simple Simon met some animals, going to the fair. Said Simple Simon to the animals -

Simple Simon: Something is wrong, somewhere.

Duck: (jumping up, trying to fly) Quack-quack-QUACK, quack-quack, quack-quack, quack-QUACK.

Sheep: Baaaah! Something is wrong. (spinning around) I walk funny.

Snake: Sss, sss, sss, Sss-something IS wrong. (flies into the air) But this is great! Whoopee! Yahoo!

Duck: Quack-quack-quack-quack-quack! You've got my wings!

(Snake bows, and the wings fly from his back to the duck's)

Duck: Quack-quack-quack-quack-quack-quack.

Sheep: Pardon me, bu-u-ut I think you have my legs.

(Snake jumps off the legs, and they walk back to rejoin the sheep.)

Snake: (having slithered into the background, sadly) It was too good to last.

Sheep: Baah. Something is still wrong.

Duck: Quack-quack-quack-quack. We've got the wrong legs!

(they exchange legs, and then smile at each other)

Simple Simon: (scratching his head, then he realizes -) Ah-HAH! Now I know what's wrong! (pointing to the sheep)

(All look at the Sheep, and the Sheep, hanging his head in shame, walks out of the boots and away.)
