

Seven Nations, Nothing

Nothing
(Kirk McLeod/Bob Marley)

I don't want to wait in vain for you love
I don't want to wait in vain
I don't want to wait in vain for you love
I don't want to wait in vain

You lit a fire so high it burned my darkest hour
I know, I know, I know if it were in my power
I'd use my voice to make you see down from this tower
I know, I know, I know that more than just an hour
Is so long, ooo-ooo, you mean nothing to me, yeah-yeah

This time I spend with you is worth the risk to steal
The more I see and feel with you the more I heal
And if I could be better than the time before
I'd wring my body dry and crumble to the floor
Ooo you-oo-oo it means nothing to me
Ooo-ooo it means nothing to me
Ooo-ooo it means nothing to me, ooo- ooo

I don't want to wait in vain for you love
I don't want to wait in vain for you love
I don't want to wait in vain for you love
I don't want to wait in vain for you love

I don't want to wait in vain for you love
I don't want to wait in vain
(Repeat)
