Sevendust, Prodigal Son

Passing through this life with so much regret It feels like I haven't got over it yet It takes so long for these wounds to heal I'm knocking down walls, taking my time I gotta get out of here

Where will I go? Who will I become? I'm coming on like an elephant gun

Reaching for the piece of mind that I can't find The sun keeps fading away Searching for a feeling that will never come The return of the prodigal son

Last night the moon seemed to look so empty (yeah) I fell into a pit of despair (going nowhere) I never thought that these wounds would heal I fell to my knees, the rain came down I thought I could touch the sky

What have I done, why was I so wrong? Hear the pop of my elephant gun!

Reaching for the piece of mind that I can't find The sun keeps fading away Searching for a feeling that will never come The return of the prodigal son

Reaching for the piece of mind that I can't find The sun keeps fading away Searching for a feeling that will never come The return of the prodigal son - the Prodigal Son!

This time has just begun I finally found a feeling The return of a Prodigal Son