

Shadows Fall, Suffer The Season

Unseen wounds fade to the surface
Agony I cannot stand
You don't know what I feel inside these eyes
Staring through your shallow body into the lies
Watching life pass before my eyes as I hang from the knot I tied
Thinking of what I have left behind, from this life I am saved
You've destroyed all I've made
What will become of my legacy
I don't know why I even bother
Ending it all is the only answer to questions at hand
The question of life and death to all answered at last
When they find me gone and they know my plan
They'll forget that they hate me and try to understand why I ended it all by choice
While they cry and mourn
I'll be peace at last
Pray for the end..this life always feeling sorrow.. in life
What I've experienced in this agonized depression
Trying to understand and make the pain lessen
Receiving nothing from the love that you send
I have found the only way to make the pain end
You want me to look inside my head
But it's far too late to see what's bothering me when you already know my fate
Dwell on your own life if you value it so much
You don't belong in matters YOU DON'T UNDERSTAND