

Shane Hebert, Like No Other

Piecemeal approach to the years of effort
Trying to heal with all my effort
Are we here just to entertain our feelings?
Feelings of our craving, our big eyes

There should be so much more

In a time of need and personal affliction
It becomes a tired excuse as an addiction
And it's your excuse for me instead
That I've gone and lost my head
But I'm stronger, I've grown stronger

There should be so much more
Something like no other
Something that your mother
Could never give

Aligned with all the things that takes us longer
To be afraid to listen when things get harder

There should be so much more
Something like no other
Something that your mother
Could never give (2x)

And it's you and you alone
Who wont stand tall and let it show
Just walk away and let me go
'Cause it's you and you alone who needs to grow

There should be so much more
Something like no other
Something that your mother
Could never give

There would be so much more
Something like no other
Something that your mother
Could never give
