

She Wants Revenge, This Is The End

Running like a dog never making connections keep your story straight if they question you try to separate the feeling from the truth

You're pulled in many directions it's never a gamble Low risk low reward love is all you need But did you think that you could walk away so clean?

Yet you're staring at another strange ceiling again though you swore you'd stay home and read wondering when it is alright to leave so you just get dressed

The door shuts behind you, the sun rears its head you race to your car through the cold morning dew slightly annoyed and confused - she didn't seem to mind you didn't spend the night.

This is the end
though I saw it coming before we went to bed no I never could be the one for you
This is the end
though I saw it coming before we started and no one's gonna be broken-hearted here

Staring straight ahead and never looking for answers dumb yourself down it's a great disguise
Try to separate omissions from the lies

With low expectations then nobody's letdown no long talks and no breakdowns in the way But isn't that what makes it worthwhile anyway?

Now you're pressed against somebody who you don't even like, though they're cute
and they'll pass the time, kissing around their neck and not their mouth, so they don't look in your eyes.

You lie down exhausted and riddled with doubt, then wait 'til they're sleeping and sneak towards the door, careful not to make noise across the creaky wood floors...
They're not as cold as yours.

This is the end,
though I saw it coming before we went to bed,
no I never could be the one for you.
This is the end,
though I saw it coming before we started
and no one's gonna be broken-hearted here.
