

Sicko, Broken String

If I could find a way to change today the way I sing and how I play I couldn't change a goddamn thing If I can't change a broken string frustration gets the best of me vehemence will not let me be relaxed and gentle when I'm playing while the metal is decaying

I go to so many shows my ears are always ringing and if I go deaf then I won't have to hear my lousy singing and if things are going my way it doesn't mean a thing 'cause tomorrow I could have another broken string

Well I don't know how to solve my problem so many times I've felt so dumb seems like it's a total flop when all the action has to stop Ean sighs the punks just stare Josh runs his fingers through his hair get so tense my hands are shaking I can't afford all the strings I'm breaking
