

Sissel, Someone Like You

Swear i made up my mind when i saw you that first time its like you were sent from the sky the kind of love you hear about that you just cant do without baby thats you and i always believed there was something more through every empy hour i kept searching for someone like you who does everything the way that you do someone like you, baby no one holds a candle the only someone i want is you ive treasured this romance and hold you as we dance our way through love's open doors ive found my happiness within ur sweet caress then ive ever known before somethings fate wont let you leave behind i could turn this world over but i'll never find

its not like ive given up on life just because ive found this love ive never felt something so right your love is a gift to my heart

somethings fate wont let you leave behind

someone like you,baby no one holds a candle the only someone i want is you
