Skid Row, Ghost

I feel the things I said
But never said how I felt
I know I waited much too long
Could I get it in your head
Without a head full of doubt
Looking back it seems that I
Went about it all wrong

Lying alone in the bed we made Watching headlights on the shades The ghosts that sleeping by your side Are my promises to you that died To you that died

Wasn't long ago when forever was our friend But now freedom's what I feel inside It hurts so much to let you go To know we'll never touch again When I walk if I fall down Can I take it in stride

Lying alone in the bed we made Watching headlights on the shades The ghosts that sleeping by your side Are my promises to you that died To you that died

I might let you go, but i'll never go away I might let you go, but i'll never go away...yeah

I feel the things I said But never said how I felt I know I waited much too long

Lying alone in the bed we made Watching headlights on the shades The ghosts that sleeping by your side Are my promises that died

Lying alone in the bed we made Watching headlights on the shades The ghosts that sleeping by your side Are my promises that died To you that died To you that died
