

Skinny, Here I Am Again

I've heard it said before there's no hope for this generation
I've heard it said before well I don't believe this to be true
I know the God who can heal a generation
I know the God who can even use if He chooses too
He will use you too, here I am

Here I am again seeking You with no regrets
Here I am again, knowing that You know best

Anxious words find their way to the tip of my tongue
Ready ears are open to hear the words that will become
A way to know the Truth among the mysteries of men
A way to know the God we forgot way back when
