Slash, Standing In The Sun

You're the dark to light You're never satisfied You only know the things that will fail to be A pessimistic one Who sees the end to come Where every joy is lost to a tragedy

And still you wonder why you cannot find your peace today 'Cause you were meant to live So much more than this Now if only you could see

You could be standing out in the Sun Still the rain's coming down Rain's coming down There ain't a cloud in sight Still your heart beats cold and grey Every day

You know it brings me down
The way you drag around
Your heavy heart just like a stone
Well, keep your misery
Don't put it all on me
'Cause I've got problems of my own

You could be standing out in the Sun Still the rain's coming down Rain's coming down So keep your cloud of darkness and doom off my parade Here today

And if I could you know I'd set off a spark I would burn it out I would burn it all away And purify your jaded, cold calloused heart Some day, I'll find a way

You could be standing out in the Sun Still the rain's coming down Rain's coming down There ain't a cloud in sight Still your heart beats cold and grey Every day

You could be standing out in the Sun Still the rain's coming down Rain's coming down Someday I'll steal the spark, I will burn your doubt away I'll find a way

All we will to be is all we are
