Sleeper, Please Please Please

going straight has never been easy close my eyes don't look to the left or right when it hurts you know it's the price you can't make it everyday i hide from the sunlight anyway i got near it on twice maybe i have never been brave yes i want to please please please you've got to find a place of your own before they carve your name on a stone you've got to lift yourself up from the ground and it's a strage world dragging you down please please please all belief the reason escapes me letting go can't make you feel any worse all my life i know i was cursed you can't break it please please please you know it's hard for you mother and me you know it's not what we wanted to be you've got to life me up to the sky there's only seconds left till we die you know it's not what we wanted to be you know it's not what we wanted to be you know it's hard for your mother and me and it's a strage world dragging you down you've got to life me up off the ground
