

Slightly Stoopid, Ever Really Wanted

And if you ever really wanted, someone to call your own.

And if you ever really needed, while you were all alone.

And time and trouble did you ever think that you would be with your back against the wall?

But now your older, so much wiser now, the one who wants to make the call.

A little bolder now, cause while youre all alone, don't really know why you be holding on, to what you

And if you ever really thought that you would be the one with your back against the wall.

But now you rolling through like you never knew what it was to lose it all.

And if you hear what the other man say, you better stop and see.

And if you see what the other man see you know we must agree.

And if you do what the other man do, oh lord, we cannot be, the way that we wanted, the way that you

(Angelo Moore)

Have you ever really wanted someone to call your own?

Someone, something, some place, some my brotha, my sista, its good to have a place for home.

The lost and isolated, picking up the phone, but all I gets a ringtone.

Ive got myself, but its always good to have a confident and a helping hand, cause we need each other

Hear what the other man say, you better stop and see.

And if you see what the other man see, you know we must agree.

And if you do what the other man do, oh lord, we cannot be, the way that we wanted the way the you

We can hope for better skies and we dont see why others lie all day and night you cant deny these

The long and windey road, is the road thats been less traveled on,

I said the long and windey road, is the road you take while moving on

And if you hear what the other man say, you better stop and see.

And if you see what the other man see you know we must agree.

And if you do what the other man do, oh lord, we cannot be, the way that we wanted, the way that you
