Slumpark Correctional, The Villain's Demise

Animal raised, child of hatered Born to paint us red and black Inferior creature, left its dungeon Turned our shores a river of stains The bells deny you in their churches The claimed wisemen bowing down The slaugters hang their armours On the wall, until they fall May the hell end your existence May the sun melt down your steel May your fat-chinned blackened army Put below their guns and kneel You fed us torture, left us dying Now it's time, we'll pay you back We'll kill you slow, we'll burn your dead corpse We'll tear your soul in the afterland The bells deny you in their churches None shall save your wretched soul The land you left is tearing... Like a wall but now you fall Rust in peace like a lasting shred of human disgrace Never shall be born a slaughter to fill the void Thats in your place.
