

Smash Mouth, Solitude

I lose my solitude
I see myself in you
I don't like what I see

In my voice like you it sounds
What the hell is goin' down
I'm so pissed of at myself
In the mirror, it's you that I see
Starin' back at me
I don't like what I see

I try to look the other way
And I pretend that I'm okay
But I know it's tried and true
Look at myself, you're just like me
I've always told myself it's you
I didn't wanna be

I lose my solitude
I see myself in you
I don't like what I see

I try to change but it don't work
I'm going back to what is worse
I can't believe I yell at you
You yell at me
Can't you see we're going nowhere fast
Like a plane will crash
Like a plane will crash
Like a plane will crash

You always said that you were proud
Let me lay at rest your doubts
Your criticism I can take
But I can't deal with all your hate
I can't deal with all your hate
I can't deal with all your hate

You kicked me 'round
I tried to tell you I've had enough
You never ever seem to let up

All I needed was a friend
Someone to talk to Someone to turn my thoughts around
Pick me up when I fall down

Lead me in the right direction
Aid me in my resurrection
Feel my thoughts and feel my soul
Tell me which way I should go
Which way I should go
Which way I should go

I lose my solitude
I see myself in you
I don't like what I see

I lose my solitude
I see myself in you
I don't like what I see