

So What, No Living Without Loving You

(D. Beyeler)

I am standing on a river, and looking how it runs.

It brings a lot of water, and tells me what was once.

I am looking in the sky, there are stars and a full white moon, there is wind blowing from the east, whispering that I'll see you soon!

You will be a part of mine, as long as the sun will shine.

There is a light to find, but without you I'll be blind!

I am walking on a road which never ends,

and I fight against a power I can't defend.

You will be the reason of anything I do,

there will be no living without loving you!

There ain't only black and white, there are some colors between.

There is a reason why we've got to fight, because too much things has been.

I can see a reflection in all the things I do.

Your lives deep, deep inside me, and I am as close to you!

You will be a part of mine, as long as the sun will shine.

There is a light to find, but without you I'll be blind!

I am walking on a road which never ends,

and I fight against a power I can't defend.

You will be the reason of anything I do,

there will be no living without loving you!
