

Sofia Loell, Right Up Your Face

You're like my angel fly away, you're like a mountain in my way your like my reason to be dead that's what I said (to you) right up your face (x2)

I walked around my whole life waiting for Mr. Right I was suppose to know him momentarily, he might be that boy round the corner to my house or the flower boy from the shop next door, or maybe that stranger down the street one block, the key to my unlock

So I turned, and I burned the memories of my last life, old pieces of myself and then I promised, I'll never be back again I can do a lot better then what I've done before there's nothing to stop me cause I want more

Only one moment gone before they last took place inside my head those fantasies my mind embrace like a hug from a person that I care for a bit sensitive and therefore I pull back inside my shell once more, must find the way out door

So I turned....

I'm running away from my old hell escaping from a possessed cell of dark and death (aaaa)I no longer feel shocked from disrespect all my hate is gone and that's a fact for you - Right up your face....
