

Soilwork, 20 More Miles

Here lies the quest
Right upon you
It's time to make a stand
Now, whether you like it or not
You better deal with it once again
This time it's essential
This time it's for real
In life there's just questions
Successively wasting your time
A gradual restraint of the mind

I let my feelings show
Don't know where I'm at
It doesn't give you
The right to use me
I know I'm better than that

My emptiness fills the holes
Of your predictable questions
So give me no lectures
Don't you sell me your kind

20 more miles in the rain
20 more getting drained
I can't redeem myself
But I still can figure it out
20 miles in the rain
20 more getting sane
I shouldn't reveal myself
But I still could figure it out

Don't let me go through
This with nothing
Nothing to salvage
A possible fall
Though I still have
My conscience to guide me
It concerns me enough to believe

I let my feelings show
Don't know where I'm at
It doesn't give you
The right to use me
I know I'm better than that

My emptiness fills the holes
Of your predictable questions
So give me no lectures

20 more getting drained
I can't redeem myself
20 miles in the rain
20 more getting sane

-Solo-

20 more miles in the rain

20 miles in the rain
20 more getting sane
