

Something For Kate, All The Things That Aren't G

Hello, is anybody home the lights were on try and switch to manual control but it's been on autopilot for so long and Ive been working on the theory that someones always worse off and Ive been thinking Im too young and now what
for you
what are you going to do can't consume slowly too much to see too much to read on your bridge to O.T. but someone, somewhere is pushing a world around on four wheels and tonight in your town the stars are looking down on you and me
and now what
for you
what are you going to do the news comes twice a week like a chinese whisper not the same when it reaches me safer to see than to be seen safer given lines to drive between, between, between and it's such a small room it's a danger and the pictures on the wall might mean nothing at all but they're mine will you notice
what will you say
what will you say
any attempt to compensate would not go unnoticed
and Ive been thinking Im too young for all of this too young