

Something For Kate, Colored Chalk

It's all right there explained in colored chalk a demonstration of virtue and of youth like a beautiful rendition of an age old joke when told it's just another one over the head and the best revenge ooh watch me
tell it again and does it feel different when you slap your pocket now stop must start acting my age but I sit on the edge of the bed listening to that song over again considering justice, considering judgement, considering the best revenge
ooh watch me
one more time
and does it feel different when you slap your pocket now shake hands with a panic attack shift your weight to choose your weapon to shut the door to relax this whole thing is a storm in a teacup density per square inch Im tired