

Sometimes Never, In My Dreams

You've pushed me under the surface
I couldn't breathe without your air
Your touch, your kiss
And what was left of your gentleness

You've left me stranded in the sands
But I came back to hold your hand
For you, For me
For what I thought was meant to be

I have given in all for you
Given everything to help you through
I have given in but still
You turn around and walk away

Still you turn around and walk away

You've left me burning in the flames
Another of our evil games
You play, you throw away
The moments that we shared

I'm still standing outside
Hoping you'll change your mind

I have given in all for you
Given everything to help you through
I have given in but still
You turn around and walk away

In my dreams you came back to me
In my dreams

In my dreams you care for me
You touch me ever so sweetly
Until the morning comes and
We both fade away

I'm still standing outside
Hoping you'll change your mind

I have given in all for you
Given everything to help you through
I have given in but still
You turn around and walk away
