Sometree, Hands And Arrows

Of hands and arrows stairways and head coats you stand, in my way again, catch your eyes and fade

You are always in time You are always in time

Spent half my life casting you from somewhere, casting you aside

Spent half my life casting you from somewhere, casting you aside

Of hands and arrows, I hold out and let go your hand, all over my face I stand In your way and fade,

You are always in time You are always in time

Spent half my life casting you from somewhere, casting you aside

Spent half my life casting you from somewhere, casting you aside