

Sophie Ellis-Bextor, I Believe

Hold me down
So I don't leap onto the wall
With the fever of it all
That would encourage mayhem
They're quite a rowdy crowd, do you think?
And I'm going to the peak of something
Lovely feeling, slippery breathing
Tell me how to break the news
There's no way that I can lose my love and it's taken over me
I feel as if this love could last forever
As if my luck and hope have found each other
I feel as if I should have known, together
We make good sense to me and I believe
Who just said
Some girls don't get a second chance
When I've toyed and I've romanced
I'm on the edge of something
Inner soothing, man-approving
Tell me how to take the news
There's no way that I can lose my love and it's taken over me
