

Soraya, No Need To Explain

Like a moon without a planet
My light had nowhere to shine
You wandered aimlessly in orbit
Waiting for your star to arrive

Like a poet without language
My feelings trapped with no escape
You were a painter with no canvas
A memory with no time or place

For every action a reaction
For a word a silent thought
For every doubt a confirmation
For every loss a lesson taught
For every fall a brand new flight
For every crowd an empty shore
We were meant to be together
Forever now forever more

Ill be your fascination
Youll be my inspiration
Well be our own sensation
No need to explain
Never complicating
Always recreating
Never once forgetting
Theres no need to explain

Like a flower with no spring time
I was waiting for the rain
Like the sun behind a mountain
I felt your warmth but not your rays

For every action a reaction
For a word a silent thought
For every doubt a confirmation
For every loss a lesson taught
For every fall a brand new flight
For every crowd an empty shore
We were meant to be together
Forever now forever more

Ill be your fascination
Youll be my inspiration
Well be our own sensation
No need to explain
Never complicating
Always recreating
Never once forgetting
Theres no need to explain