

Spark, Excuses

Making excuses because I'm just a man
Making excuses for my fallen stand
Wanting more than what is really my share
Taking more than what I can bare

I can not see, I've lost my way
Making excuses day after day
But I see Your hand, and I see Your smile
I feel Your presence at every extra mile
You call my name when I walk away
You search my heart day by day

(chorus)

Every where I go You are there
Every step I take You always show that Your care
What I don't deserve You give me more than my share
Your loving touch shows me You are always there

Wordly values seek my searching mind
Taking Your time and making it fit mine
Living how I want for others that are seeing Hoping they will like this
I can not see, I've lost my way
Making excuses day after day

But You touch my heart, and open my eyes
You reach in and fix inside
You lift my burdens so I can walk again
You came to this earth to die for my sins

What I thought I had was nothing
What I have in Christ is more than something
I still struggle throughout His days
But what I found in Him is no other way
