

Speeddealer, Leave Me Alone

the sun breathes fire across my neck it's my sojourn, it's my destiny why did you feel the need, who gave you the right goddamn it leave me alone

the day you realize that demons and saints are one, the world makes perfect sense over-come with euphoria, we need no one but ourselves even on the outside, there are times when you want to come in try and try, try as we might never seems to just quite fit it's freezing cold, you've lost your coat so far away from home you knew better

you know better outsiders keep to their own curse the day, live for the night the moon is hung low, she illuminates my path why did you feel the need what gives you the right
goddamn it, leave me alone

the sun breathes fire it's freezing cold
so far away
i'm feeling old
goddamn it, leave me alone