

Spleen United, Heat

lay down your bricks and rest your tired heart wait till the morning brings another start

when the pain is gone then your work is done hurt takes you away sometimes it hurts watching the change in your eyes new hunts in the morning light sleep takes you away at night lay down your head and rest your tired heart

wait till the morning brings another start

when the pain is gone then your work is done
when the pain is gone then your work is done at last
when the pain is gone then your work is done at last
when the pain is gone then your work is done at last
when the pain is gone then your work is done at last