Spock's Beard, 4Th Of July

NARRATOR: Another 4th of July Another pie in the sky Another man hears the call

Another snake in the grass Another tire's been slashed Another man takes the fall

And like a dream dressed in white Fast as a trick of the light You see the vision of every man

You've known it since you were small Even before you could crawl You had the vision of every man

Another 4th of July Another shot hits the sky Another man has to pay

We wish our boy would stay sane We wish he'd change his name But life just isn't that way

And like a dream dressed in white Fast as a trick of the light You see the vision of every man

You've known it since you were small Even before you could crawl You had the vision of every man

Another 4th of July Another shot hits the sky Another ego exalts the man

Another 4th of July Another shot hits the sky Another ego exalts the man
