

Spoons, Waterline

There is a corner in her heart
Where everything always shows up in the end
Sometimes good, sometimes bad
The memories just rise up to the top

On the waterline
In her hurricane mind
And the submarines keep surfacing
To the waterline

Men can see it in her eyes
Something drown in there long, long ago
Under the big waves out at sea
When it comes I really want to be there

On the waterline
In her hurricane mind
And the submarines keep surfacing...
On the waterline
At the edge of love
I swim to you
On the waterline

And every day I build the boat
To get to where she swims alone
On falling waves I cannot reach
So everyday I wait
And the submarines keep surfacing...

There is a corner in her heart
Where everything always shows up in the end
Sometimes good, sometimes bad

On the waterline
In her hurricane mind
And the submarines keep surfacing...
On the waterline
At the edge of love
I swim to you
On the waterline
Deep in your heart
I swim to you
On the waterline
At the edge of love
I swim to you
On the waterline
At the edge of love
