

Spunge, The Story So Far

this started as a total hobby, now it's more of a lifestyle.
Has been for a long while,
got ourselves a beat up van, atacked it with a few spray cans.
Practised in an unused garage then we moved to a farm site, man it was a bombsite,
we could come and go whenever we coose, so we put up with the leaky roof's and we sang,

Nananananana.
Nananananana.
Nananananana.
Nananananana.

Line ups been the same since the start apart from our bassist, had 3 replacements!
I think we're gonna leave it at that, before it gets too spinal tap first place we played was a hall, and we got a gig somehow, (I think it's shut down now), played to a man and his dog, but we knew it would be worth the slog, so we sang

Nananananana.
Nananananana.
Nananananana.
Nananananana.

Tried to book a show in any place hat would let us play, (think that's the best way) people liked the stuff they heard, and they went out and spread the word.
It's feels like the sun is shining even when it's raining, you won't see us complaining.
'Cause we're doing what we love to do, and we know it's 'cause of people like you.

yeah,
yeah,
yeah,
yeah,

when you start out with nothing, and then build it in to something,

lovin' it,
lovin' it,
lovin' it,
lovin' it,
Hell yeah!

This is the story so far,
can't wait for the next chapter,
This is the story so far,
can't wait for the next chapter,
This is the story so far,
and i know it's far from over.
This is the story so far,
can't wait for the next chapter,
This is the story so far,
and i know its far from over.