Squeeze, Action Speaks Faster

(difford/tilbrook)

Action speaks faster Faster than words Pull her towards you Let love be heard And when we kissed there was a room that had been emptied You said so much without a word I'd been tempted Love's not for sale there's not a price Who could have rented

Who lives here now come out and be found where I have nested

My eyelashes swam up through the tears The moments that passed took two or three years

And when we talked there was rain and no attraction Hand to my head, eyes to the ground, no reaction Our love was home, now it's a fort that's held up to ransom What of us now, now there's no laughs, where is the action
