

Staind, Devil (Acoustic)

She sits alone again and tries her best not to pretend that all she used to live for was the love that wasn't there
And every time she needs to do the things that she believes will fill the void inside of her cuz he was never there

And she says,
"I swear I'm not the devil
though you think I am.
I swear I'm not the devil."
And she says,
"I swear I'm not the devil
Though you think I am.
I swear I'm not the devil."

He tries to sleep again and wonders when the pain will end the cuts they made run deeper than his
He looks with tired eyes at all the people hypnotized and wonders what can save him from a self-cr

And he says,
"I swear I'm not the devil
though you think I am.
I swear I'm not the devil."
And he says,
"I swear I'm not the devil
Though you think I am.
I swear I'm not the devil."

I always fail to see the little things in front of me the things that mean so much to you, a way to let y
That I appreciate the way you always tolerate but sometimes when I medicate frustration in you shows me how you feel

But I swear I'm not the devil
Though you think I am
I swear I'm not the devil
And I scream
I swear I'm not the devil
Though you think I am
I swear I'm not the devil
