

Star Salzman, Home Is With You

I built a castle for you today,
It's made out of sand and the water recedes
I don't know what our neighbors will say
Will they tell us to get rid of our sea weeds?

Maybe we could live there for a while
Make it our special summer hideaway, hideaway hey hey
Don't leave the water on
Don't leave the water on
Or everything crumbles around you

Because this home is my home and it's
Nothing without you
This place is your place and it's
All built around you
My home is with you and without you this place is just sand

I built a house for you today,
It's made out of gingerbread, and a candy shell
I don't know what our neighbors will say
When we tell them not to eat our door bell

Maybe we could live there for a while
Make it our special winter hideaway, hideaway hey hey
Please don't eat the walls
Please don't eat the walls
Please don't eat the walls
Baby I'm telling you, please don't eat the walls
Or everything crumbles around you

Because this home is my home and it's
Nothing without you
This place is your place and it's
All built around you
My home is with you and without you this place is just food

The walls come tumbling down
They all come tumbling down
When I see
You smile at me

Cleaned my apartment for you today
Made my bed, picked up the clothes all over the place
I don't know what our neighbors would say
So I guess I'll have to find a new parking space

Maybe we can stay here for a while
Make it our special little hideaway, hideaway hey hey

Because this home is my home and it's
Nothing without you
This place is your place and it's
All built around you
My home is with you and without you, without you
Everything crumbles around you

Because this home is my home and it's,
This place is your place and it's
Nothing without you.
