

Stellar*, Slowburn

Take it from me
There's a wall you can't breach
With pretty words they sound absurd like
Cheap philosophy

I stepped through it clean
And the scars show no more
What's then was the and now is when I
Choose to ignore

Smiles are made of accolades that don't Belong to me

Slowburn slowburn

All the while you learn
Slowburn
All the while
Believe me when I say

It's a hard pill to take
My second skin is wearing thin my
Polished visage aches

It's not the fact I'm a part of that
It's the thought I'm part of this

Behave like someone-else and I'm doing
It naturally
One way is not enough but I keep it to Myself

They're for no one else
I keep it to myself
I keep it to myself
Slowburn
