

Stephen Speaks, Disappear

In your eyes a moment ago
I saw fire and rain
Shortly after you smiled at me
It all melted to pain
You cannot be true to me
Until you're true to yourself
When you say you have to leave
You put your heart on a shelf

What taught you that you've gotta run
What inspires this fear
When you start to feel something real
You always disappear, you have to disappear

I want to get inside of you
Find what makes you tick
But you can see I am getting thin
And your walls are too thick

I've given my heart and mind
What more can I do
When you cash out anytime
You see I'm getting through

What taught you that you've gotta run
What inspires this fear
When you start to feel something real
You have to disappear, you always disappear

I know you have dreams
Don't hold them inside
Take hold of your heart
And open it wide
I know you have fears
Just push them aside
You'll never feel love
If you never try
