Steve Hackett, Everyday

Can you light a fire in Winter's face Or say why a life has gone to waste Pleasure Island was an overcrowded place

Cleopatra's Needle conquered fear One more nail in your coffin dear Endless torture for at least two thousand years

Every day

What's the use of friendship, who am I Hell bent on destruction, how I tried You became a ghost to me long before you died