

Strangelove, Low-Life

So I bought another day
And sitting cold I watched it quietly slip away
I don't believe another day
They go so slow they go so quickly in another way
But it don't matter anymore
Cause nothing thrills me anymore
Not anymore
My expectations were too much
I should have known the things that mean
That much can only ever fall
Disillusionment has hold
Though I'm not certain what this means to me at all
Cause it don't matter anymore
Cause nothing touches me at all
No not at all
I can only take so much
People only take so much
I can only take this much
People only take this much
So I'll buy another day
And sitting cold I'll watch it quietly slip away
I don't believe another day
They go so slow they go so quickly in another way
But it don't matter anymore
Cause nothing thrills me anymore
Not anymore
I can only go this far
People only go this far
I can only go so far
People only go so far