

Stretch Armstrong, This Time

so this is the end i will draw the line like i have one thousand times before but this time it stays firmly in place the smile no longer resides on my face summer has passed, the streets are empty now

not this time
i want to run away, i gotta get away
can we find a better way?

this is our last resort, but
the air is clearing
the situation is too tough to report but the outcome
is still pending

these words cannot express my longing and my desire to erase these memories from my mind so i lie here waiting for the right time could it be the right time to turn and walk away

can we find a better way?

the situation is too tough to report but the outcome

stars hang like daggers waiting to fall to cut the dreams from our hearts

the situation is too tough to report but the outcome
is still pending
