

Sum 41, Never There

do you think about me cause i don't have any doubt you must in this life even though you're never there I didn't feel you disappear from sight you did it well

and now
you and I share the same life missing out so the story goes
that we're left
we're stuck with a broken house
I know that if I
I had the chance I'd let you know that I understand and I've let it go

I don't need you by my side
I think by now
I am doing fine myself
on my own
but I feel you time to time like your sending outta sign to tell say I am not alone

because
you and I share the same life missing out
so the story goes
that we're left
I know that if I
I had the chance appears I'd have no fears
we both share pain
we feel the same
