

Sun Airway, Close

you'd put an end to an empty sky I think you want it to come down from bank to bank you drift endless why call out to me now?

don't want to be the string you keep all up in knots only you can untie

you put an end to an empty sky and say you've never known love like this before I say I've never known loneliness like this you've never known loneliness before because you've never been alone with my love my love

i tried to get close to you so you slowly split your two lips and the words spill out like ribbon you give me teenage poetry you think it comes across like dylan you say you've never known love like this before I say I've never known loneliness like this
