

Sunterra, Fields Of Pain

the sun has woken me up ray of sunlight burned my eyes I stood up and looked around wide fields without an end I walked through and turned around the same fields started to burn bloodstained earth under my feet I heard the screams of hundred men see us going down-face the fear crawling along this fields of pain we're on the brink of disaster where fireballs want to catch us

I closed my tired eyes again hoped that this dream would be gone woke up with tears in my eyes back in my time and dimension but I felt myself so cold I took a look into the mirror my own reflection dissolved and spoke by the voice of another