

Supe, Shade

Everything I had to say falls inside the shades of gray
the shade
Everything I fail to see takes another part of me
the shame

I have opened the third eye in me screaming all directions its chord split in two and this counterfeit is pouring from me singin loud defenseless stories trapped in a mind of shame no lies and blame to save me from today

Everything I had to say
falls inside the shades of gray
the shade
I can hear the other side crepping in by my side the pride

I'm only holding to this faded color lonely world drowning in the words you said all the lies you spread and you dig a hole to drag me in now release the snakes and hide away from me desperate to share your claim leaving me with nowhere else to stay

Everything I had to say
falls inside the shades of gray
the shade
can't take any more of this caught in underneath it all
the shame

Everything I had to say
falls inside the shades of gray
the shade
Everything I fail to see
takes another part of me
the shame