

Super Deluxe, Suicide Doll you spend your nights there in the park alone in the dark waiting for your meal and i am concerned with how you might survive or if you'll even be alive you make your next deal

I've never met you and still i care for you i cannot help you but oh how i would want to it's a shame to watch you fall it's a shame that your tragedy does not affect us all
suicide doll

you fell secure in living hell and linger at that wishing well suffering out the season but soon yur hope gives out to fate you clench you share and wait abandoning all reason

and when you're twenty-four years old your destiny you've sold you say "no one can save me"; and when you're asked if you'll reach 30 you say softly "no... well, maybe";

does not affect us all
yeah, suicide doll
