Super Deluxe, Years Ago

We'd met one silent second once before Collided tension all for fear Walking a threshold that we musn't ignore Message received Loud and clear

I lost my heart to you years ago Where are you where are you now And so I learn what I already should have known Years ago...

Somewhere else again and with someone else My thoughts drift straight to you While I am bitterly betrayed by myself Despite the fight of intellect Instinct will rule

I lost my heart to you years ago Where are you where are you now And so I learn what I already should have known Years ago...

Love cures and love hurts Love is and isn't true love We're all alone....

In my mind I see you silently while you seduce me I'd imagine every detail here as you're saying slowly Come on come on right or wrong...
Your choice is only give in to me...

I lost my heart to you years ago Where are you where are you now And so I learn what I already should have known Years ago...
